DID WE ALREADY DODGE THE BULLET OF 12/21/2012?

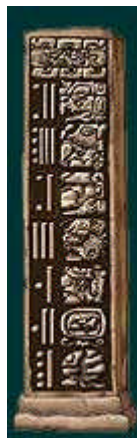

I have been preaching about the inaccuracy of history for years now, claiming that our history—or anyone’s history—is only as accurate as the people writing it down or translating it. History is often the product of someone’s idea of what they thought they were experiencing, or a blatant lie to protect the guilty and not necessarily what actually took place.

The same can be said of today’s true date. Our date is based upon the Gregorian calendar, which has been altered so many times by so many people that it’s a wonder anyone knows where they truly are in time and space. We have as guides, the Mayan Calendar, the Julian Calendar, the Farmer’s Almanac Calendar, the Astrological Calendar, the Gregorian Calendar, The Jewish Calendar etc... which one is correct? What Day is it, really?

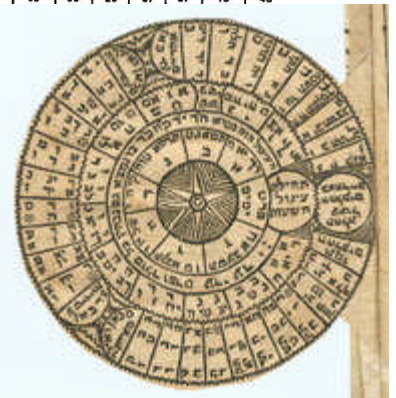

Some scholars believe that our current calendar is based on calculations surrounding Christian beliefs – year one being the year Christ was born; therefore it has been 2011 years since the birth of Christ. However, others insist that Christ was actually born in -4 BC indicating that Christ was really born 2015 years ago. According to the Jewish calendar the current year is 5771.

At last, the mystery of the Mayan calendar revealed.

As long as we all agree on a date, there shouldn't be a problem, right? Not unless one wanted to calculate the exact date of the "BIG UNKNOWN EVENT," more commonly known as 12/21/2012.

According to astrologer, Victoria Peltz the world calendar might be off two years based on the shifting from the use of the Julian Calendar to our present Gregorian Calendar, making December 21, 2010 the date of reckoning. I don't know about all of you, but I didn't feel or hear of the world coming an end a few days ago. But this is what did happen on the Winter Solstice, 12/21/2010: A powerful lunar eclipse took place that lasted over an hour, which won't happen again for another 36 years. (When I woke up that morning at 7:15 am I noticed that it was still very dark—much darker than normal for this time of the year.) At the Tropic of Cancer, which runs through the town of Todo Santos in Baja California, the moon was at its zenith (straight up) during the total eclipse. This is a once in a thousand year event. The sunrise on that day was also perfectly aligned with our Galactic Center, which is a very rare event, as well. Not only was the sunrise aligned with the Galactic Center, but so were the moon, sun, and the Earth. This was the forecasted line up that was to take place on 12/21/2012, which was predicted to cause havoc on our planet. Oh, and one more thing that happened on this date, my cousin Debbie had her birthday!

So stop worrying about December 21, 2012. We just went through what the Mayans predicted would happen, and we're still here to talk about it, so it wasn't such a big deal—much like the predicted world collapse of our computer systems at 2000.

The next time someone asks you what the date is, be truthful and answer, "I have no idea!"

ORBS

Christine,

I used to think orbs were either an artifact of digital photography or evidence of spirit presences to which electronic sensors were particularly sensitive. But after seeing Leanne's photos from her trip shot on film, (Vol 39-December 2010 issue), I am starting to think the veil is getting thinner. You've often said spirit activity often increases after ghost hunter investigations. With so many people doing so many random ghost hunts and so many places catering to ghost hunting tourists, we might have a general increase in ghost activity all over now. As a culture of electronic gadgeteers, we've really opened the door.

Bob~

I agree with you 100%. What an interesting theory.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS CHRISTINE!

I really enjoyed this newsletter (Vol. 40-December-2010) especially the petro balls. I'd never read about them before, fascinating!!!

Error in Newsletter

In your publication "Paranormal Musings Newsletter" Volume 31 dated March 2010, under the topic of Free Masons, you list Moses Cleveland as the founder of Cleveland, Ohio. His name is misspelled and should be "Cleaveland" with "a" as the fourth letter. I direct you to <http://ech.cwru.edu/ech-cgi/article.pl?id=CM10>. The name for the town was to be Cleaveland (though the first "a" would later be dropped due to a newspaper misprint in 1831). See <http://www.cuyahogacounty.us/home/history.asp>.

I enjoyed reading your publication, especially the lead article about the A. I. Root Company.

Julie, Medina, Ohio

Thanks for bringing that to my attention, Julie. I lived in the Cleveland area for most of my life and I had never heard of that spelling before. This is another example of the inaccuracy of history.

Everything you thought you knew, you eventually find out you don't.

THE CORNO CORNICELLI (ITALIAN HORN AMULET)

If you grew up in an Italian neighborhood, or had relatives who lived there, seeing men and some women wearing an Italian Horn Amulet around their neck would not have been unusual. When I saw one, I assumed it was an Italian thing, and accepted it, but I didn't really know what it meant.

In Italian the amulet is called "Corno Cornicello" (Little Horn). It is not worn strictly for decoration, but is actually an ancient ornament to ward off the "Evil Eye." I had several Italian aunts, so I was well aware of what someone giving an evil eye looked like! Had I known when I was a child that wearing one of these little horns would have warded it off, I surely would have worn one!

The Cornos are most often carved out of red coral, or they are made of gold and even silver. It is crafted after a horn from an African eland, which is a type of cattle. Over the years they have lost much of their original twist and have become more modern-looking. They are often mistaken as a chili pepper, but in reality they are horns.

The reason this particular horn has been used is because it was once considered sacred to the European Moon Goddess, Luna before the advent of Christianity. There was believed to be a link between an ancient horned God and the Mother of Fertility Goddess, as well. Some modern-day Catholics have disparaged the wearing of the amulet and began referring to them as "Satan's Horn." Of course, this was merely a way to gain control of what is considered a pagan practice, as its original meaning had nothing whatever to do with the devil. As a matter of fact, the horn (and Moon Goddess, Luna) could also represent the Virgin Mary, as she is often depicted as standing on a crescent moon.

So, what is the Italian Evil Eye, or Malocchio (pronounced Ma-lo-ooak) ? It is a term used for a curse or a hex. There are references to Malocchio, and the Evil Eye in records written by the Babylonians, Sumerians and Assyrians dating to approximately 3000 BC. There are also references to it in the Bible in both the Old and New Testaments.

The ancient Italians believed that the evil eye was harmful to nursing mothers and their babies, fruit bearing trees, milking cattle, and the sperm of men making them impotent. Whenever anything else detrimental occurred it was also believed that someone had put the "evil eye" on the people involved. I guess it was a way to explain life's challenges and remove God from the responsibly when something unpleasant occurred.

Although intimidation regarding curses and being affected by the Evil Eye has dwindled over the centuries, many Italian men still wear the amulet to protect their manhood—just in case!

NANCY BRADLEY PREDICTIONS FOR 2011

Nancy Bradley is known internationally as the Celebrities' Psychic. She has been on THE TRAVEL CHANNEL'S HAUNTED HOTEL SERIES, FOX, DISCOVERY, KMAX in Sacramento and as a guest on other programs around the country. She also hosts two of her own television shows, "THE PSYCHIC HOUR WITH NANCY BRADLEY" and "INVESTIGATING THE UNKNOWN WITH GOLD RUSH GHOSTS PARANORMAL INVESTIGATIONS." Nancy teaches a Friday night Psychic Development Class, and gives Psychic and Life Path Seminars across the world where she helps people to be happy and achieve their wants and goals. She is the author of four books about the Paranormal. To learn more about Nancy and/or to purchase her books, go to her web site at: <http://www.nancybradley.org/index.html>

1. NO consistency in weather patterns from past history in the U.S. this year. Cold where unusual, many measured snowfalls and bizarre and extreme weather across the country. Extreme hurricanes, tornadoes, floods and ice. Everyone be careful across the country, be prepared for the unusual.
2. A famous rock star will not have a long life and in fact die shortly.
3. Bristol Palin is not done with Levi Johnson. Eventually she will have to go against family and admit that Levi told the truth about the Palin family and only retracted to secure a relationship with her. BOTH have a lot of growing up to do.
4. Much more will be coming forward about UFO's and honesty in what the government knows under the Obama administration.
5. Dick Chaney's health will decline further.
6. Mel Gibson will make another mistake. His life in movies is on the line. Suicidal tendencies could be there and he would be well advised to seek counseling. Temper issues and bigotry could be the core, he a victim himself of things in his past. We pray for him to not do harm to self or others.
7. Injury for Lady GaGa. Short life for American Idol show.
8. I TOLD YOU last year and the year before to be wary of NORTH KOREA and CHINA. It is now coming to pass, and our efforts need to be focused seriously in this area. TROUBLE, REAL TROUBLE!
9. A major University will be exposed for funding procedures, allowing some students in because of their social connections, money and prestige rather than academic quality.
10. Watch airplanes and cargo airplanes and cruise ships for bringing in drugs and terrorist activity.
11. Likely health issues for Burt Reynolds, Liz Taylor, Nathan Lane, Lauren Bacall and Tommy Lee Jones.
12. Miley Cyrus shows tendencies of going into the crazy, druggy, sexual and alcoholic arenas that have felled Britney and Lindsey. She needs to take hold of herself. Her wild lifestyle catches up with her shortly, and trouble well inside 2 years. Watch for pregnancy, possible quickly bad marriage, rehab and jail time as possibilities.
13. MAJOR archeological find connects east coast to earliest visitors predating current expectations.
14. As I told you last year, more species thought to be extinct or mystical having thought never being real are coming back. This includes the Unicorn which is already making a comeback on the planet. Many species will be coming forth from the sea.
15. Job market improvement around June or July, and then another plummet. California in big trouble. Look for major crime, looting, fires, and theft as lay-offs in law enforcement and fire prevention is understaffed. Schwarzenegger will go down as the worst Governor of California ever. Jerry Brown has his work cut out for him, and will suffer a health issue.

16. MORE major breakthroughs in Stem Cell research, most outside the U.S.
17. New safety issues threaten US car companies, big strain on US automotive industry.
18. Another death in the Michael Jackson family.
19. Much trouble in Africa.
20. MAJOR earthquake areas IN PART (rest given at a later date), SUMATRA, BAHAMA, TURKEY, CHINA, JAPAN, CHILE, INDONESIA, NEW ZEALAND, COSTA RICA, PERU, SPAIN, HAWAII, FIJI, (most islands are in jeopardy). In the U.S. ALASKA, EUREKA, CA., SAN FRANCISCO (area) of CALIFORNIA, and they will be popping up all around the U.S., places not known for having them. ENGLAND will have a sizeable earthquake as well, also SOUTH AMERICA.
21. A well known horror novel and movies person to die.
22. A major director and producer will leave us.
23. The Real Estate community will continue to bottom out all across the U.S., California really in trouble. No sizeable relief until 2013.
24. More major corporations will end.
25. Economy and job losses will go well into 2011, and small rises for betterment by the end of the year. No real help until 2013.
26. Blows to the insurance industry as it is investigated for fraud and other infractions.
27. At LEAST two more oil spills off shore with Government Agencies trying to keep information from the general public. Two for certain will be in Alaska and So. California. It will be found that the current problems in the south are not over by a long shot, even though they are saying the cap is in place and has stopped all leaking. Not so. AND, the fish found around this leak will likely be tainted for at least 20 years. The water is ALSO not safe for wildlife or humans.
28. More deaths at US borders. There are more terrorist material and sympathizers coming through the borders of Mexico and Canada into our country than the public knows. Also be aware of bomb threats at airports, on passenger AND cargo planes, cruise AND cargo ships and we should be keeping tabs on tunnels and bridges across this country, and our water supply facilities and storage areas. New York especially in danger. If terrorists get into our water supply or destroy dams we will be in great danger. NEEDED ~ much security.
29. Again, NEW YORK needs to be on guard for terrorist activity, places where many people gather, such as Times Square and Grand Central as targets. A major threat at New Years Eve thwarted and this info. MAY not reach the public. Interesting to know, ONLY ABOUT 1/3 of ALL TERRORIST ATTEMPTS are leaked to the public. As citizens, WE SHOULD KNOW EVERYTHING.
30. Last year and the year before I told that Ted Kennedy, Tony Curtis and Eddie Fisher (among others) would die. This year we will lose a substantial amount of MOVIE STARS, Icons.
31. Fire to destroy a historical U.S. site this year.
32. Cancer will take several great and renowned singers.

Children's 'ghosts' haunt Picton cemetery (Australia)

My opinion? This looks like the same child and she doesn't look like a spirit to me.

The family who took this picture while on a ghost tour in Picton, NSW, swears there were no children inside the St Mark's Cemetery.

Which begs the question: who, or what, is out there? Local legend has it that the two children are David Shaw and Blanche Moon, who died 60 years apart.

Blanche was crushed to death in 1886 when a pile of sleepers that she and a number of children were playing on slipped.

David was the son of a minister who died in 1946 from polio.

The woman behind the lens of this mysterious photo, Renee English, said she was "a skeptic" before undertaking the ghost tour on January 9 (2010).

"When we were standing at the bank looking into the Cemetery I was just snapping away and making jokes about the whole thing and asking when the ghosts were going to come out," the Port Macquarie resident said.

"I know that when I took that photo there was no-one else in the cemetery. The only people we saw were a family of four about 10 minutes later but those kids were clinging to their parents the whole time.

"When we uploaded our photos and saw the children all the hairs on my arm stood up and I just went cold all over.

"That night I couldn't sleep at all and I'm never watching a scary movie again.

"I wasn't a believer in ghosts, but now I'm intrigued."

Local historian Liz Vincent conducted ghost tours in Picton, claimed to be Australia's most haunted town, until her death last year. Since then, her husband John and daughter Jenny Davies have taken up the mantle.

"Picton's just so haunted," Ms Davies said. "We find people always love to see their photos afterwards because most of these things aren't visible to the naked eye."

One of the tour's most popular figures is Emily, a lady who was hit and killed by a train in 1916 while taking a shortcut through the Redbank Range Tunnel, also known as the Mushroom Tunnel, to visit her brother.

Emily Bollard resided near the railway line and was a single woman aged in her 50s. Before taking her shortcut, she didn't check the timetable and was hit in the tunnel by a train coming from Thirlmere. She died instantly.

Argentina: Odd Creature Seen in Entre Rios

Argentina: UFO Sightings Ongoing; Odd Creature Reported

During the course of this week, numerous persons claimed having seen lights in the night skies and unidentified flying objects overhead in broad daylight. The most intriguing fact, however, is the story told by an inspector for the municipal natural resources office, who encountered a strange creature on the premises of the municipal parking lot.

In recent weeks, the department of Victoria has become an unprecedented area for sightings. On a daily basis, residents from various points of the communal lands and the rural areas have described how and why they saw an intense light in the sky, or objects that suddenly vanish as though by magic.

In many of these sightings, people have managed to use their cell phones to take photos.

"On 10 December 2010, while listening to the Caminando program (102.1 FM) I heard my name being mentioned, and they were calling me about something very strange that was taking place. I went to the station immediately, in the understanding that it was just that important. Upon arriving at the station, they told me the story quickly, adding that the percipient was not only credible - he was frightened and wanted to tell me what occurred on the evening of Wednesday, December 8."

"They showed me a drawing made by the father (an excellent illustrator) and I was astounded, since it is the same figure that is currently been seen in many countries.

News RSS Feed Tourist captures spooky image on camera

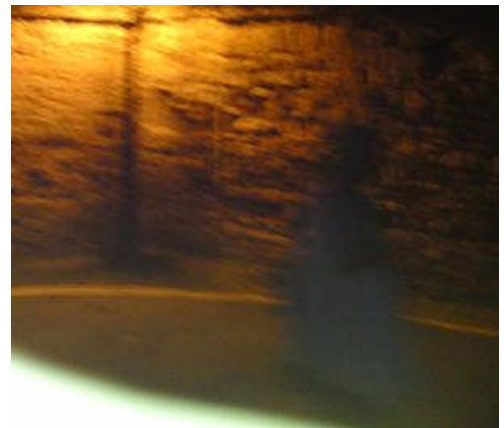

HERETIC bishops have been burned at the stake and soldiers shot down during the English Civil War so it's not surprising Oxford is regarded as one of the most haunted cities in England. But this spooky specter took one tourist by surprise when it appeared in her photograph.

"I don't know if it's someone walking past – I didn't notice because I was concentrating on taking the photo – or if it's something wrong with my camera, but all my other pictures are fine.

She said: "I thought it looked so beautiful glowing with All Soul's College in the background I had to take a photo. "When I first saw it I thought it looked strange and wanted to get home and put it on the computer so I could see it bigger

"Interestingly, it was on that same lane, New College Lane, that a couple of years ago a Russian girl sent a similar slightly blurry photo. An Australian woman who claimed to be sensitive to the spirit world was on the ghost trail not long ago, and claimed that New College Lane was the most haunted place she had ever been.

WWII Ghost Blimp

In 1942 the war was still raging in Europe and Japan. The US was aware that the Japanese had submarines off the coast of California and, not wanting another Pearl Harbor disaster, began patrolling the coastline with a fleet of twelve blimps.

On August 16, 1942 while on patrol with the blimp fleet, one of the blimps (Flight 101) crashed in Daly City, a small town south of San Francisco. When the wreckage was investigated, the two pilots who commanded the blimp were not found—and they have never been found!

A third pilot, Riley Hill, was on board the ill-fated blimp just before take off, but at the last minute was ordered off due to heavy moisture in the air and the fear that the blimp would not support three men in those conditions. (If you have ever been to San Francisco you would understand as the air in the bay is almost always full of moisture and fog.) Riley testified to the fact that the two other pilots were on the blimp at take off.

There were no problems after the blimps took off and everything went smoothly until Lt. Cody radioed into headquarters, “Position four miles east of the Farallones. Standby,” an hour and-a-half after take-off. Four minutes later, Cody called again and reported seeing an oil slick on the water. That was the last communication from Lt. Cody’s blimp.

The Flight Commanders on Treasure Island became concerned when three hours had passed with no further word from the crew of Flight 101. Frantic attempts to contact the blimp went unanswered. The fog was thick by this time and when the blimp was discovered by a swimmer on the shore near Daly City it was very close to the surface of the water and heading right into town.

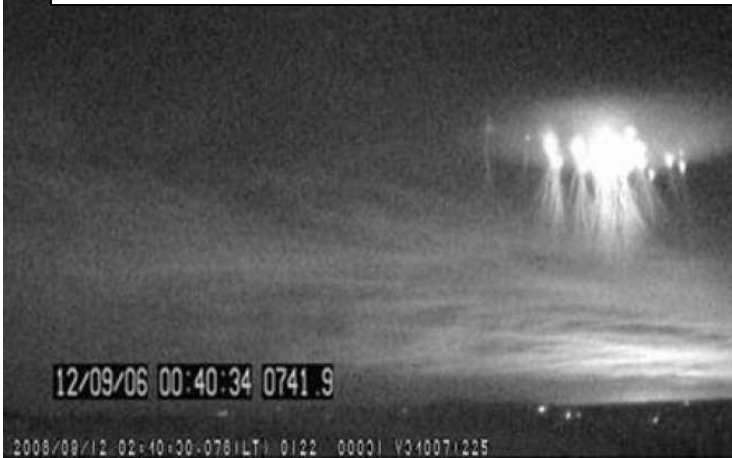

Although the blimp scrapped the roof of a home, no one was injured when it finally landed in the middle of a main street. Daly City officials were on the scene almost immediately. When Navy personnel arrived, they discovered no sign of Lt. Cody or Ensign Adams. The door was latched open, which was a highly unusual in-flight position. The safety bar, normally used to block the doorway, was no longer in place. The ignition switch and the radio were on and working.

The Catacombs of Paris

The Catacombs of Paris are a network of tunnels and caves that run for more than 300 kilometers under the most romantic city in the world.

During the 16th century the graveyards in Paris were getting full, and the churches were running out of room to bury their dead. The priests decided that they would create a crypt using the tunnels that had been dug under the city during the it's construction. The church created a mass grave, called Charnier and began piling up the bones of the dead in the Catacombs. Also, they had to remove some of the bodies that had already been buried because there were so many of them it began to smell. They decided to put these bodies in the Catacombs, as well.

Thousands of people explore the Catacombs each year. While snapping photographs many have discovered ghostly images that cannot be explained. More disconcerting, there have been hundreds of reports of visitors being grabbed and/or touched as they walk through the tunnels. Others complain of having the sensation of being followed, cold spots, a few cases of hysterical breakdowns and the sensation of being strangled. Because of all the unexplained activity in the Catacombs, it has been dubbed the most haunted place in the world.

Unfortunately, most of us will never be able to experience any of these unexplained events, as Paris is not right around the corner. If you are ever lucky enough to visit Paris, don't miss the underground city of the dead. If you have visited the Catacombs, please send me an email about your experiences there. Continued from page 9 . . . WWII Ghost Blimp

Lt. Cody's cap was found on the instrument panel. A locked briefcase containing top-secret codes was still in the same place Riley remembered it being put down when they all got on the blimp. It was as if Cody and Adams had opened the door and simply stepped out into thin air.

Flight 101 was seen by several ships and planes between the hours of 7 and 11 am. Eyewitnesses reported that they were close enough to see Cody and Adams in the gondola and everything seemed normal. Although both men were wearing life vests, the inflatable boat was still in the gondola. Even after intensive search efforts, the men nor their bodies were ever found.

This amazing photo was taken by photographer and graphic designer Neil Sandbach in 2008. Neil was photographing some scenic shots at a farm in Hertfordshire, England, as part of a project for wedding stationery; the couple planned to have their wedding ceremony held there. Later, Neil was astonished when he examined the digital photo on his computer. There, as if peeking around a corner at him, is a ghostly, white, almost glowing figure of what looks like a child. Neil says he is quite sure there was no one there at the time.

There is further corroboration that this is a true ghost photo. Neil had shown the couple the anomalous photo, and before the wedding they asked the staff at the farm if they had ever had any spooky experiences there. The couple did not mention Neil's photo. Some of the staff members admitted that the figure of a young boy, dressed in white night clothes, had been seen on several occasions around the barn.
